

CONFIRM REPORT OF VICKSBURG STRIKE

New Arrivals Declare Values Are Almost Fabulous
Property Already Under
Bond For the Sum
Of $150,000

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Lee S. Goebel and Henry Barker, both mining men of the A. & C. country are arrivals in the city, and confirm the report of the big gold strike that was made a few days ago at the Alamo mine, near Vicksburg. They state that the discovery was made at the bottom of a fifty foot shaft, the vein showing a width of five feet, which gave an average of over $1,000 in free gold to the ton. In this vein there was an eighteen inch streak that carried values of $15,000 a ton in gold. This they say is an absolute fact. Both examined the shaft where the valuable ore was in place.

The ore lies in a conglomerate, with good foot and hanging walls in place. From the character of the conglomerate some advance the theory that it may be the channel of an old creek bed, carrying this geological feature. The ground is soft and easily mined, which adds to its attractiveness. Mr. Clark of Goldfield, Nev., has been working the property for several weeks under a bond of $150,000 for the group, and states that he will make the payment in a short time.

Goebel and Barker state that excitement continues in that section, and the strike, while considered along the lines of being a mineral freak, from the unusual conditions in the ore, establishes a new principle in mining in that field.

Mr. Clark stated to several a few days ago, that the Vicksburg section is far more desirable as a mining center than Goldfield ever was in its palmy days, and that there will be a rush of big mining men is expected.

The new bonanza is in close proximity to the Plomosa Mountains.

Mr. Barker is accompanied to the city by his wife. With Mr. Goebel he will remain a few days, when he will return to his camp near Vicksburg. The first report to reach Prescott from this new strike, was given by A. C. Massey of the Prescott Hotel.

HUMBOLDT PAIR AR- RESTED AND JAILED

(From Sunday's Daily.)

After vainly imploring his wife for several weeks to abandon the life she was leading, and failing to convince the man who is said to have ruined his home of the error of his ways, Pedro Fabella resorted to the extreme measure of calling to his aid the stern arm of the Federal law, and had his wife and Ysidro Rubio arrested under a violation of the Edmunds act, yesterday. Deputy U. S. Marshal B. Anderson arriving from Humboldt last night with the two in custody. Later they were taken before U. S. Commissioner Moore and held under $500 bonds. This they were unable to give, and both were placed in the county jail to await trial.

The relations of the accused caused considerable comment in Humboldt, and although they were advised by friends and officials of the county to desist in their conduct, they remained firm in their purpose, and defied public sentiment. The woman, after being arrested, assumed a haughty attitude, and in this she was supported by her consort with the air of a bravo. Her two children, one a boy of only sixteen months, and the other of four years, she disowned, and sent them to their father.

Considerable sympathy is expressed for the unfortunate husband. He is known as a good provider, honest and industrious. He is 32 years old, while his wife is entering her 20th year.

LEAVES FOR PHOENIX.

Mrs. J. L. Munds, chairman of the Territorial Woman's Suffrage Committee, left Sunday afternoon for Phoenix, to remain during the winter. In behalf of the movement, it is said that she and other leaders will appear before the Constitutional convention and ask for recognition in the incorporation of equal suffrage in the Constitution. She will be supported by many leading suffragists of the Eastern states, who will visit the Territory in the next few weeks. Among those expected are delegates from Colorado and New York.

A few more boosts from Dr. Wiley for cottonseed oil and the refiners will boost the price.

HONORED PIONEER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

(From Friday's Daily.)

Judge N. L. Griffin, the premier of the Hassayampa colony, celebrates today his 77th anniversary, and with that ripe age, he is also recalling the distant days of his early arrival and turns back the leaves in the Book of Time to 1863, as the year when he first came to Prescott to reside. In the latter record, he can truthfully say that he is the pioneer living resident of the city, and one of the oldest in the Territory at large, either one of which noteworthy distinctions cannot be appreciated in this generation, when it is taken into consideration what the pioneer passed through in privation and the perils that faced all in the era of the Apache warfare.

In a reminiscent mood yesterday, he related many interesting events of pioneer days. He camped on what is now the Plaza before there was a house in the city. This was in June of 1863. Later, when the gubernatorial party reached Chino Valley, and after Surveyor General Clark drove the first official stake in the ground at the old Dougherty building, in West Prescott, and designated it as the permanent capital of Arizona, Prescott came into existence. With the townsites established, Arizona received its first real estate boom. One locator of land was followed by another, and with the rush Mr. Griffin got into line and erected a snug little cabin of hewn logs on the identical corner that is today occupied by the Mulvenon brick block, on the corner of Granite and Garley streets. At that time the total habitations in the city could be counted on the fingers of both hands. As the town commenced to grow, and with the prestige of being the capital of Arizona, it was but a few months when the buildings could be counted by the score, and many were quite pretentious. Judge Griffin found the little cabin inadequate and with the late Calvin Jackson, in 1864, erected on adjoining ground to the east of his original cabin, an adobe building, 50x100 feet, which withstood the ravages of time until the big fire of 1900 wiped it out of existence.

Judge Griffin in many instances relates interesting experiences, in which the struggle between the white and the red man followed for supremacy, in the little hamlet and surrounding country. But the paleface triumphed and in a few years Prescott was big enough to get on the map as a desirable haven for the prospector and explorer.

Judge Griffin reached Tucson in October, 1862, arriving from the Trinidad mine, in Sonora, where he was manager of the commercial interests of the company. He accompanied a wing of the Walker party to Rich Hill from that city, and verifies the fabulous wealth in native gold that was taken out by the original locators, which he estimates at several hundred thousand dollars, or as he aptly expresses it, "God only knows how much."

All the ground being taken up at that point, he came on to Lynx Creek, where he found one hundred miners at work. This was early in 1863. At that time thousands of people were rushing into the country, all attracted by the strike on Rich Hill. Soon they commenced to run to all sections, and in a few months every locality that had any colors in the gravel, was teeming with activity. The arrival of the white man resulted in the Indian disputing his right. They wanted pay for the water, the grass was theirs, the timber belonged to the squaws to build fires, and from these grievances the crack of the rifle was heard and the devilish Indian war began. It raged for ten long years, and soon the country was almost depopulated.

Judge Griffin states that Prescott, in the early days, was provided with supplies from Yuma, La Paz, Aubrey, and Fort Mohave, all located in the Colorado river. The pack train was the only method of the transportation and it cost an even twenty-five cents a pound to get in anything.

Judge Griffin is as hale and hearty as men half his age, and stated that when the Pioneer home is opened he desires to be the first admitted to the institution, as he was the first now living to arrive in the city where it is located.

He is a New Yorker by birth, and Shenango county is the place where he first saw the light. He has resided in this city continuously for over forty-seven years, and in that time has never left the county for a longer period than one month. In the vernacular of the day, "This is going some."

If your job is "shaky" a Journal-Miner liner will get you another one.

VICKSBURG PLACERS TO BE DEVELOPED

Local Mining Men Preparing to Start
Extensive Exploitation With Three Machines

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Plans were completed yesterday by Ed. Shumate, Herman Voge and H. L. Scott for the beginning of operations on their extensive quartz and placer mines near Vicksburg, on the A. & C. railroad, and since the big gold strike made on the Alamo a few days ago, the intention of this association is to carry on their operations on broad and energetic lines. The purpose is to start a team from this city next Tuesday, in charge of H. L. Scott, Mr. Donovan, the inventor of a dry washing machine, will accompany him. When the team reaches Vicksburg, Shumate and Voge will leave this city on the train, meeting Charles Anderson, one of the owners, when the party will proceed to their interests, south of Vicksburg.

That the company intends to devote considerable capital in their explorations was learned yesterday. They will place on the ground three separate and distinct types of dry washing machines, one of the Donovan type, that has been used in this section recently, another an invention of J. L. Mahoney, a well known mechanic of this city, and a third, of the Shovel manufacture, used successfully in New Mexico, and which will reach the city today by express from Albuquerque.

This Prescott syndicate owns 1,000 acres of placer ground and four full quartz locations. Their properties are situated within four miles of the Alamo mine, where a big strike was made recently. This find is creating much excitement at present in that part of the Territory. Tests made of the ground to be operated gave flattering results, and gold dust on exhibition at Shumate's store gives the proposition considerable interest, more particularly since the Alamo strike has been verified. The intention is to place a force of at least twelve miners at work, and to operate the machines on the placer beds, and to develop the quartz claims.

In a letter received yesterday by Mr. Shumate from his partner, Mr. Anderson, the latter confirms the Alamo strike, and urges his associates to get on their grounds at the earliest practicable date. Mr. Anderson states that the excitement does not abate, and that many miners are rushing into the new field to make locations wherever any ground is open.

YUMA MINER IS ### REPORTED LOST

YUMA, Ariz., Oct. 4.—Since the publication of the possible death of Joe Beale, many of his friends here are beginning to get worried, and many who thought at the time the story was published that he was not dead, are now beginning to think that he may be dead, as no news has come from him and it has now been almost a week since the two men from El Centro left him.

At that time the men were at Desert Wells, and Joe had taken a burro and started to the tanks in the Tinajas Altas to secure water. When he did not return in twenty-four hours the men became frightened and cut the horses loose from the wagon and started to the railroad. They reached Yuma Saturday morning and told their story.

Since then Mel Greenleaf and Marchina Ortega have started out to hunt for Beale or his body.

They left here with a team of mules hitched to a wagon, and with saddles in the wagon, so they could do some riding if necessary.

As it is over sixty miles to Desert Wells, they will hardly be heard from before Saturday.

MINERAL POINT COM-

PANY HOLDS MEETING

(From Thursday's Daily.)

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Mineral Point Mining company was held here yesterday afternoon, for the transaction of general business and the election of a new board of directors. Among those present were Max Wenzel, general manager; F. Gartner of Chicago and A. L. Hammond, attorney.

The following board of directors was elected for the ensuing year: Lewis Wisler, Chas. P. Saethleben, David Kernaghan and W. F. Freitag. The new board will later announce the officers, and outline a plan of operation.

The company is said to be well financed and has resumed work on its properties, some important discoveries being made during the last few weeks. Among other things to be considered in the near future is the equipping of the works with an up-to-date mechanical plant.

The enterprise was formerly known as the Black Mountain Copper company, and a reorganization has been effected. Mr. Wenzel has been retained as the general manager, and resides on the ground.

DELEGATES ELECT LEAVE FOR PHOENIX

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Delegates-elect to the Constitutional convention commenced moving toward the Capital City, yesterday afternoon from Northern Arizona, and this morning at 3 o'clock the remaining delegation of Yavapai Democrats left to begin their duties tomorrow.

Among those who passed through on the afternoon train were noticed Henry Lovin of Mohave, Fred Coulter of Apache, William Morgan of Navajo and Albert M. Jones of Yavapai.

The southbound train this morning carried Judge E. M. Doe and C. C. Hutchinson of Coconino, Republicans; M. G. Cuniff, Homer R. Wood and Morris Goldwater of this county, Democrats. The above were joined at Kirkland Valley by A. A. Moore of Walnut Grove, Judge E. W. Wells will leave this afternoon.

On the train with Henry Lovin of Mohave, was Dr. J. B. Whitesides of Kingman, who goes as a spectator. Chairman J. P. Dillon of the Territorial Democratic Central Committee, also left with his delegation, as did J. H. Robinson, secretary of the committee.

Captain John Kinney, who aspires to be the sergeant-at-arms of the convention, was also in the party, and it is said has the backing of the solid Democratic delegation from this county. Captain Kinney in seeking this honor, has the unique record of being the oldest in residence in Arizona. He served in the army along the Rio Grande before the Gadsden Purchase was made, and was one of the first American soldiers to reach Tucson when possession of the strip was formally taken. With this long and distinctive record as a citizen and as a soldier before the Territory was established, it is the wish of his many friends that he will be accorded the honor of serving as an officer of its first Statehood convention.

SOLVED THE PROBLEM.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Superintendent of Roads Childers reached the city yesterday from Thompson Valley, where he was called to settle a road dispute. After looking the field over, Superintendent Childers endorsed the road leading from the school house, which was an amicable adjustment of the difficulty to all concerned. Later repairs will be made on that route and Hillside Station, on the S. F. & P., made the terminal point.

PROLIFIC CROPS.

Levi Jones of Thompson Valley was in the city yesterday to visit relatives. He reports the hay crop of that section as the heaviest in recent years, and the community facing a difficult problem in reaching the railroad on account of the condition of the roads, leading out of the place. Superintendent of Roads Childers is now inspecting two routes and it is expected that the necessary repairs will be commenced soon. As Mr. Jones tersely states it, "We have the goods, but to get them to market is the problem."

SELLS FARMING LAND.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

A deed was filed for record yesterday from Charles Evans of Kirkland Valley to E. H. and Caleb Bragg and M. B. Laws, the heirs of Calus M. Bragg, for a strip of land in the above section, for the sum of $1 and other valuable considerations.

CONSERVATION CONGRESS.

JESSIE MINE IS NOW REGULAR SHIPPER

Carload of Ore Sent To Humboldt Smelter
For Treatment
Famous Property Active
After Being Idle
Ten Years

(From Sunday's Daily.)

After ten years of inactivity, the famous Jessie mine, in Chaparral, is again on the producing list, a carload of rich ore leaving the camp yesterday for treatment at the Humboldt smelter. This news will be welcomed by the mining community generally, for among the many properties that made history in the early '90s, none had a better record than the Jessie, in the aggregate, and few, if any, exceeded it in valuation of ores.

This property was recently taken over under the management of A. L. McCarthy, an experienced mine operator, who arrived here a few months ago, representing the Ohio Mines company. After carefully outlining work and considering the underground conditions, preparatory operations were started in unwatering the old levels. This was accomplished in due time, and the old works drained to the 300 foot level. Ore extraction has been confined to the 250 foot level, in virgin ground, and it is stated that the results have been a surprise.

The shipment of yesterday will be followed regularly with others, as there is an available supply now in sight that will require many months to stope. The initial shipment was made from the mine without any assaying and while the result of assays are not generally known, it is believed the average values are high, as that portion of the mine under former production showed some sensational values. It is probable that the lower levels will be unwatered.

The Jessie operations completes the triangle system of active mines in that field, the Mount Elliott forming one link, the Lelan another, all within a stone's throw of each other.

BIG PINE MINE YIELDING RICH ORES

(From Thursday's Daily.)

John Harlan, superintendent of the Big Pine mines, near the Senator, while in the city yesterday stated that he has been making a series of mill runs on ores from that property, and is very much pleased at the results. The ore is a free and sulphide, and the grade of concentrates, while not heavy in volume, is very rich.

The runs were conducted on a general testing of the ores on the dump, in order that the pility of the reduction method may be satisfactorily tested.

On the return from the East of General Manager Dinning, who is expected in the next few weeks, he contemplates starting the plant on a steady run. Development continues in driving the main tunnel to its objective point, the yield being satisfactory.

Mr. Harlan states that he is very well satisfied with the showing of the property and the future that faces it.
